A contemporary, smart and inclusive new series perfect for today's twenty-first century families.

Meet the Twitches, four tiny toy rabbits who live inside a beautiful Teacup House, and come alive when no one's looking!

Stevie loves playing with the Twitches, but when Daddy Gabriel goes missing in the house move, the Twitches need to think big to locate him.

Anne Finnis, Usborne Deputy Fiction Director says: "What we love about Hayley's writing is how current and contemporary it feels. She shows family life as it is for many people today with a lightness of touch that makes no issue out of it."

Hayley Scott was inspired to write Meet the Twitches after she moved with her daughter to a cottage.

Hayley says: "I am really interested in how every family is different and that doesn't make it any less of a family. At the time of writing Teacup House, my daughter and I lived in the country in a cottage by ourselves and she once asked me why none of her books showed a mum and daughter who lived together – just them – but who both still got on really well with the dad. This was the springboard for Meet the Twitches."

Hayley lives in Norfolk. Teacup House is her debut series for young readers. Follow Hayley on Twitter @TeacupHayley.

"There was a funny feeling in the air. Maybe it was something about how the sunlight was coming through the curtains, shining on the falling dust, but everything felt like magic."
