Parade intruder

One of the royal Corgis has spotted a cat on the podium while the soldiers are preparing for the parade. Can you guide him between the guards so he can chase the cat away? Don't go behind any soldiers unless you can see a clear gap.

BUCKINGHAM PALACE

The Royal Family is based in London's Buckingham Palace.

Royal Garden Party

The King hosts garden parties for thousands of people. This butler is getting the food ready for the guests. Read the table setting rules, then circle the tray, stand, plate or bowl that he's set incorrectly.

Table setting rules

- Sandwiches on silver trays
- Large cakes on stands
- Cupcakes on large plates
- Strawberries in bowls

Did you know?

Around 27,000 cups of tea are served at each garden party.

Poppy's glittery crown

1. Cut a long rectangle of thin cardboard that fits around your head, with a little overlap. Then, draw a line across the middle of it.

Make the crosses taller than the points. Leave a plain part at each end.

2. Draw points and crosses along the line, like this. Cut out the crown shape, then paint it gold or silver on both sides.

3. When the paint is dry, cut a slit going down, a little way from one end. Then, make another slit going up, near the other end.

7. Leave the jewels until they are completely dry. Then, glue them at equal spaces on the fur around the bottom of the crown.

8. Place a large plate on a piece of red crêpe paper or tissue paper and draw around it. Then, cut out the circle.

You will need to crumple the paper a little as you tape it.

9. Push the middle of the circle through the crown from the bottom. Tape the edge of the circle inside the crown, like this.

4. Bring the ends of the crown together. Slot them in place, with the ends inside, like this. Then, secure the ends with tape.

5. Cut eight little hearts from red paper and glue them to the crown. For a fur trim, glue cotton balls along the bottom.

This crown has been decorated with beads, glass "jewels" and stickers.

You can make differently shaped crowns, like this, too.

6. For jewels, roll eight pieces of foil into little balls. Cover the balls with white glue and roll them in glitter.
