

A Fuller Explanation of How A Cheese-and-Pickled-Egg Sandwich Can Turn Into a TIME MACHINE

Three factors caused the sandwich to turn into a time machine:

1. The cheese in the sandwich was Sleeton Bassett's EXTRA EXTRA EXTRA Strong Cheddar
2. The pickled egg had retained a lot of pickling juice
3. The sandwich had been in contact with the cardboard shoebox for ~~one~~ ten full weeks.

When the egg juice particles had been in contact with the cheddar particles for thirteen weeks, it caused very strange things to occur to the fabric of the Universe. Space-time started to bend and distort into loops that physicists call "CLOSED TIME-LIKE CURVES", also known as "WORMHOLES".

In the same way as two points on opposite ends of a piece of paper can be brought together by folding the paper in half, so a wormhole can provide shortcuts between distant points in space-time.

Each and every time someone, or something, swallows a piece of the sandwich, they are able to access these wormholes and travel back in time.